PLAY SYNOPSIS:

A group of campers, counselors, and scouts face an unexpected summer storm that shakes up their day and reveals their fears, friendships, and hopes.

As thunder crashes and tents fly, they discover moments of humor, courage, and even a little magic.

When the storm finally passes, the campers step out to a sky full of stars—reminding us that every storm ends, and clear skies always return.

The play marks the culmination of CAPAC's 5th Anniversary Full STEAM Ahead: A Theater Robotics Summer Day Camp.

This play is designed to ignite passion for science, technology, engineering, art, and math (STEAM) among PWCS middle school students. Through interactive workshops led by esteemed STEAM educators and role models, the camp promotes innovation and creativity.

Supporting the camp are CAPAC STEAM Ambassadors—high school students who lead and mentor, under the guidance of Mrs. Custard and the CAPAC STEAM team. Their involvement exemplifies the transition from learning to leadership in STEAM.
